

Vermonters Without COVID-19 Symptoms Can Get Tested at Pop-Up Sites

Anyone who lives or works in Vermont and does not have symptoms of COVID-19 can be tested for the virus at pop-up testing sites around the state, for free.

We encourage health care workers, first responders, childcare providers, and people returning to Vermont – such as college students, people who winter out of state, and second homeowners – to consider being tested. The sites are led by Health Department teams, with support from EMS units and members of the Vermont National Guard.

This test is to indicate whether you currently have a COVID-19 infection. This is not a serology/antibody test, so it will not tell you if you were sick with COVID-19 in the past.

All test sites operate from 9:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m.

If you currently have symptoms (fever, cough and shortness of breath, chills, repeated shaking with chills, muscle pain, headache, sore throat, new loss of taste or smell) or had direct exposure to someone who has COVID-19 in the past few days, please contact your primary care physician to be referred for testing. If you are symptomatic and do not have a health care provider, you can call 2-1-1 to be connected with a local community or hospital-connected clinic for referral to a test site. For up-to-date information and guidance for staying healthy and how to prevent the spread of COVID-19, go to: healthvermont.gov/covid19.

Please register for a testing appointment time at humanresources.vermont.gov/popups.

NOTE: Some sites are full, but you can still register on the waitlist to receive information of any future clinics that may be scheduled in your area.
